I have limited experience with the leadership side of professional development, but I found the Student Transportation Leaders Conference to be extremely beneficial. The speakers, discussions and content were "totally interesting" and the conference overall held my attention the entire time; I honestly was very impressed!

I am extremely glad I attended this worthwhile and very informative conference. The level of speakers was by the far the best I had heard in some time. Each speaker related their unique experiences into a very interesting melding of ideas among the entire group; I felt like a worthy participant even as one of the smaller districts in attendance. The networking opportunities were great and not to be missed.

STLC set the standard for other conferences, and without exception was an amazing experience. Each aspect of the conference - from networking opportunities to continuing education from the presentations - combined into an amazingly beneficial tool that will certainly have practical application in the future."

Sincerely
